Persons Dead 30 Minutes Revived by New Method, Two Physicians Declare Inject Fluid Into Heart And Bring Dead to Life

CHICAGO—A new method of resuscitation by the injection of fluid from the adrenal glands directly into the heart, credited with reviving persons who had been pronounced dead, was explained in reports read by Dr. Dennis W. Crile of Chicago and Dr. W.G. Crile of Cleveland, his uncle, to a joint meeting of the Chicago Medical Society and the Chicago Society of Anesthetists. Dr. Crile of Cleveland, was reported to have originated the method.

The physicians read reports of cases, explaining the revival of persons, he said, who had been dead as long as thirty minutes. In some cases, the physicians said, patients who had been pronounced dead were revived, died again and were revived again at intervals and ultimately recovered completely.

"Life can be restored by this method provided the cause of death can be removed quickly," Dr. Crile said.

"So far I have used the treatment only in cases of persons who were pronounced dead, not only by me, but by other surgeons. Hereafter I propose to employ it on persons who are dying."

FIFTEEN YEARS HARD LABOR FOR Mrs. CHRISTENSON

Jury Out Three Hours, Find Prisoner Guilty of Manslaughter

EDMONTON, April 11—Found guilty of manslaughter, Mrs. Irene May Christenson was sentenced to fifteen years hard labor in Prince Albert penitentiary by Mr. Justice Ives in the criminal court on Tuesday evening at 8:30 p.m. The jury retired at 5:20 p.m., court being adjourned until 8 p.m. and at 25 minutes past that hour the juryman filed in and in reply to the clerk of the court's charge as to whether they found the prisoner guilty or not guilty Marshall Sherbourne, the foreman, replied: "Guilty of manslaughter."

The prisoner was then ordered to stand up and the judge speaking very slowly and distinctly, the sentence was pronounced. With the conclusion of the sentence Mr. McCaffery commenced to make an appeal for the prisoner, but was overruled by the judge, who informed him that any pleas for clemency lay entirely with the parole end of the department. But five minutes was taken up from the time the jury entered until the prisoner was helped downstairs to the cells by the police matron and constables.

Collectors Fear Carnarvon Killed by Double of King Tut's Soul; Discard Antiques Avalanche of Egyptian Antiques from Panic Stricken Collectors who Fear Tut's "Ka" Descends on British Museum Not Yet Located Mummy Mentioned by Doyle

LONDON.—The death of the Earl of Carnarvon has caused panic among private collectors of antiques, according to the Daily Express, which declares that a number of people all over Great Britain are sending their treasures to the British Museum, London, fearing to retain them, as they believe Carnarvon was killed by Tutenkhamen's "ka"—his soul's double, as it is called.

The paper says an avalanche of parcels containing mummies, shrivelled hands and feet, porcelain and wooden statuettes and other relics from Egyptian tombs has descended on the museum in the last two days. The majority of the parcels do not bear senders' names, the owners evidently trying to keep their identity secret.

The statement made by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, in New York, regarding a mummy that had been in the British Museum "which became noted because of the series of misfortunes which befell those who had anything to do with it," has been prominently printed in the newspapers. Museum officials, however, say that they were not aware of the existence of any such mummy, but will try to locate it.

Faces of Dead Shown in Picture Taken Before The Cenotaph Conan Doyle Makes Audience Gasp and Cry at Weird Sight

NEW YORK, April 7th.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, in his first lecture since his arrival here, brought gasps and cries from an audience in Carnegie Hall here when he flashed on the screen a picture he said was taken during the two-minute silence period before the cenotaph of the unknown soldier in London. Over the heads of the crowd the picture showed hundreds of spectral faces— faces that Sir Arthur said were those of the soldier dead. He explained that a group of mediums had been planted in the crowd and they had drawn the "dead" to the ceremony.

The photograph was taken by Mrs. Dean, an English medium. Sir Arthur termed it the "greatest spirit picture in the world". The faces were singularly real.

He also showed the cast of a hand dipped in a bucket of paraffin and then plunged into cold water. The spirit having been materialized they had it plunge a hand into the paraffin as proof to the outside world of its existence, he said.

Sir Arthur called attention to the unbroken outline of the cast as proof that no human hand could have been withdrawn without damaging the thin issue of paraffin. This cast, he said, is one of the best proofs of the existence of material spirits.

Speaking to a reporter he said: "People criticising spiritualism need to distinguish between true and false prophets. The public hasn't learned that lesson yet."

"Why, if Christ and his apostles came to New York tomorrow they would be arrested for vagrancy or some other trumped-up charge. They would have to fight public incredulity just as they did 1900 years ago."

"False mediumship is the exception rather than the rule. Not over ten per cent of mediums are fakers."

"I propose that Spiritualists form an International Organization and issue certificates of mediumship, just as credentials were given by the early Christian Church."

"We would prevent licenses being given to false mediums and would withdraw certification from those found faking or abusing their powers."

Ghost frauds causing the greatest harm, says Sir Arthur are not the ordinary mediums claiming spirit power.

"I have no desire to bandy bitter words," he said, "with critics who charge that my spirit photographs and scenes are frauds. Nor am I out to defend doubtful mediums who are really camp followers hanging on to the fringe of Spiritualism and whom we cannot shake off."

New Type of Hospital

Plans have been prepared by Provincial Architect R.P. Blakey for a new type of building for municipal hospitals in Alberta. A demand having arisen in growing communities which are not yet able or ready to undertake the larger building enterprises, for a more moderate priced type of structure, the health department had a new design drawn up, in which the cost of building and equipment have been reduced from $2,300 per bed to about $1,000. The new plan calls for a twenty-bed building of wood construction, fully equipped with modern hospital furnishings and plant. It will be of the cottage type, costing slightly over $20,000. The first point at which a building of this kind be erected will likely be Grande Prairie, where the question of a municipal hospital scheme is still pending.

The Treatment of Grain for Smut

ed over the seed. This treatment can be done at any time prior to sowing.

HOT WATER TREATMENT: This is a difficult treatment unless there is live steam used in the dairy on the farm, or unless there is a cheese factory nearby; where the treatment could be done. The bags of grain are placed in water and live steam turned in until the temperature is raised to 127° F. Enough steam is then run in to maintain a temperature of 124° to 127° for ten minutes. The bags are then taken out and drained and the grain spread out to dry.

The Treatment of Grain for Smut

(Experimental Farm Note)

The Smut Diseases of grain are of considerable economic importance, and every farmer should know how to combat them for the sake of his own crops as well as those of his neighbours. The treatments which have been devised are comparatively simple and should find a place in the routine of every farm. The following is a list of the common smut diseases of grain crops, with the treatments for each; this is followed by a detailed description of the treatment:

WHEAT-Stinking Smut or Bunt: Thorough fanning of the seed grain will remove most of the smut balls. This should be followed by the formalin dip or sprinkle, which gives perfect control. Copper Carbonate dust is giving good results and is easier of application, but it has been tested sufficiently to warrant general recommendation.

LOOSE SMUT: This disease cannot be controlled by seed disinfection because the fungus spores are not carried on the surface of the seed, infection being produced by a small part of the fungus carried within the grain. Hot Water Treatment is the only means of control.

BAILEY-Covered Smut: Formalin dip or sprinkle.

Loose Smut: This is similar to the Loose Smut of Wheat and can only be controlled by the Hot Water Treatment. OATS: Smut. Use the dry Formaldehyde Treatment, or the Formalin Sprinkle. In case of hulls Oats, either of these treatments cause a serious loss in germination of the seed, and Copper Carbonate Dust should be employed.

CORN-Smut: This disease is not transmitted on or on the seed grain, but is carried over in the soil from one year to the next and spreads in the field from infected to healthy plants. produce the smut "boils" on any part of the plant. A strict rotation and as far as possible, the collection and burning of the "boils" are the only means of controlling its spread.

TREATMENTS

FORMALIN DIP: Fill bags half full of grain. Add one pint of Formalin (40% Formaldehyde) to 40 gallons of water, immerse bags in the solution for ten minutes, moving them up and down so as to drive out the air bubbles. Remove the bags and allow to drain and then spread out the grain to dry. Be sure not to replace the grain in the bags used for the seed before treatment, but either new bags or ones that have been soaked in the solution and dried. The solution does not lose strength by use.

FORMALIN SPRINKLE: Dilute one pint of Formalin (40% Formaldehyde) with 40 gallons of water. Pile the grain on a clean floor. Sprinkle the solution on the grain with a broom or sprinkling can. Mix well by shovelling over. When the grain is evenly wetted, pile it again and cover with clean bags for two hours, then spread it out to dry and put it into clean bags. Forty gallons of solution is sufficient for 40 to 50 bushels of seed. If seeding is done soon after the treatment, adjust the drill to allow a free flow of seed, or the stand will be too thin.

DRY FORMALIN METHOD: Dilute one part of Formalin (40% Formaldehyde) with one part of water and spray this solution on the grain, shoveling over at the same time. One quart of solution to 50 bushels of grain. Cover the pile with bags or blankets for five hours. The seed can then be sown without drying.

COPPER CARBONATE DUST: Two ounces of finely divided Copper Carbonate is used per bushel of seed. The seed and dust are put into a barrel and the open end covered by tying a piece of canvas or sack over it. The barrel is then rolled around on the floor until the dust has been thoroughly distributed.

Here and There

Canada's export trade grew $17,400,000 in the first eleven months of the fiscal year ending March 31st.

A recent and popular Canadian appointment is that of Mr. Walter Douglas as Steamship Passenger Manager. The appointment includes management of the company's passenger business on both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Fire insurance companies found 1922 the most disastrous year for premiums was $6.64 per cent. British companies suffered most severely, their losses to premiums being 14.4 per cent, mainly due to the Northern Ontario fire.

When the Canadian Pacific steamship Melanau, which left St. John's on March first for Chetumal, reached her destination, Captain J. B. Evans, O.B.E., her commander, will have completed his last voyage in command of the vessel. Captain Evans, who is the oldest and one of the most highly esteemed commanders in the service of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Limited, is retiring after a career at sea of 48 years, during which time he crossed the Atlantic in command 578 times, and conveyed 247,525 passengers, of whom 71,000 were Canadian and American troops. He is in command of the Melanau when this ship was sunk by the Germans in 1918, and he will be remembered by many passengers as the captain of the Melanau and the Montcalm or the Empress of Scotland.

During the year 1922 the Canadian Pacific Railway handled a total of 8,435,825 pieces of baggage as compared with 7,722,674 for the previous year. Of this amount 4,176,203 pieces were passengers' baggage which compared with 4,486,455 for the previous twelve months. 9,097 bighorns were killed, 19,236 dogs travelled as baggage and 25,268 baby carriages were moved. There was also a considerable increase in the movement of milk. In 1922 the Company moved 1,621,707 cans as against 1,614,701 in 1921. It is notable that most of this increase was in the three provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, which are an ever increasing indication of the further development of mixed farming in those provinces.

One of the best examples of a town "growing up over night" is that of Climax, the end of steel on the Connaught-Asiniboia branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway. All over there was on the quarter section on February 19th, the day on which the site of the new town was finally settled, was a concrete-slab, and a small barn. When the steel was laid in Climax on March 15th there was a restaurant, one rooming house, over a score of dwellings, two saloons, a drug store, a grocery, a general store, pool room and barber shop. The new town is situated in four large flat warehouses in which 100,000 bushels of grain were stored, and a butcher shop. The new town is situated in Lane Tree R.M. number 18, about 50 miles south of Shaunavon.

Sault Ste. Marie—The new downtown ticket and telegraph office of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Dominion Express Company at the corner of Queen and McDougall streets, in the building formerly occupied by the Public Utilities Commission, is one of the finest in the province. There are some large offices in the larger cities, but none that are better equipped.

Herald Hildal, divisional engineer for the Canadian Pacific Railway, who has been located at Vancouver for the past thirteen years, and F. W. Alexander, divisional engineer for Alberta at Calgary, have exchanged posts, it being the company's policy to develop its engineers by giving them experience with the varying conditions in different parts of the Dominion.
